MAJOR ACHIEVEMENTS

McGill Reproductive Centre

- Founder and Medical Director of the McGill Reproductive Centre (McGill RC), which opened in 1996.
- Our IVF success rate is one of the highest internationally, with a clinical pregnancy rate of over 60% per cycle started in women under 35 years of age. Our clinical pregnancy rate through in-vitro maturation of oocytes (IVM) is 35% per cycle, which is among the highest in the world.
- Co-developer of a new rapid-freezing process for human eggs called "McGill Cryoleaf Vitrification" which we offer to cancer patients before they undergo chemotherapy and to others at risk of premature ovarian failure in order to preserve their fertility. In April 2005, a healthy baby was born from an egg previously vitrified at the McGill RC, the first successful birth of this type in Canada. In July 2007, the McGill RC announced the birth of the world's first baby conceived from a previously vitrified in-vitro matured oocyte. To date, the McGill RC has reported a total of four livebirths conceived from previously frozen IVM oocytes and 22 other livebirths from IVF oocyte vitrification. The survival rate of thawed oocytes is 85% and the clinical pregnancy and livebirth rates per cycle using vitrified oocytes are 45% and 40%, respectively. The survival rate of thawed oocytes at Originelle Fertility Clinic is currently over 95%.
- Leader of the team at the McGill RC that has achieved:
 - the first air-transport IVF program in North America
 - the world's first air-transport IVF pregnancy
 - the first successful PGD birth in Canada
 - the first IVM (IVF without hormonal stimulation) birth in Canada
 - the first IVM twin birth in the world
 - the world's first IVM/PGD (genetic diagnosis of embryos) pregnancy
 - the first IVM egg donation pregnancy in North America
 - first baby born in Canada from previously frozen egg (as per above)
 - first four babies in the world born from IVM oocyte vitrification (as per above)

- Originelle Fertility Clinic and Women's Health Centre
 - Improved oocyte cryopreservation by L-Carnitine supplementation during vitrification and thawing of mouse GV-oocytes, IVM, and embryo culture on preimplantation development after IVF.
 - First series of transvaginal ultrasound directed embryo transfer pregnancies and livebirths in Canada
 - First report of GnRH agonist trigger in short stimulation modified natural IVF IVM cycle in the world
 - First series of triple stimulation, triple OPU embryo banking and PGS cases in IVF

Organizational

- In 1995, established Departmental Practice Plan in which 5% of physicians' income in the hospital is collected to support academic activities. Since its inception, the practice plan has provided financial support to the Department and a sense of ownership and involvement in Departmental governance that has fostered change.
- In 1995, established in-house on-call system where an obstetrician stays in the case room 24 hours a day.
- Expanded the Department in spite of university and hospital budget cuts during first few years of my chairmanship. At the beginning of my tenure, Department's hospital budget showed a heavy deficit. Streamlined expenditures and kept budget on track so effectively that, in some years, the Department showed a small surplus, which was reinvested to improve obstetrics/gynecology services.
- Established three endowed chairs in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at McGill University: the Milton Leong Chair in Reproductive Endocrinology and Infertility (2001), the Richard Cruess Chair in Reproductive Biology (2004) and the Robert Kinch Chair in Women's Health (2005). There are very few endowed chairs in any other department of obstetrics and gynecology in Canada. Proceeds from McGill Reproductive Centre have been instrumental in providing a large percentage of funding for each of these chairs.
- In 2004, spearheaded the creation of new clinics to treat multiple pregnancy, menopause/PMS, chronic pelvic pain and recurrent miscarriage
- In 2004 and 2005, created a women's health fundraising committee to help finance the purchase of new equipment, recruitment, research and education.

Research

- Increased number of full-time PhD researchers from three in 1994 to eight by 2004. These include an embryologist who developed the current technique for PGD using single cells from embryos conceived through IVF; an expert in the field of oogenesis and early embryogenesis who has also developed an IVM culture medium and who is a pioneer in the cryopreservation of oocytes and ovarian tissue; a molecular embryologist; and an obstetrician/perinatal researcher who, in 1996, together with biomedical engineers, developed a novel technique of intrapartum fetal oxygen saturation monitoring.
- Most important contributions to the field of research since my appointment as Chair of the Department:
 - Senior author of 2 studies that were the first in the world to demonstrate that hCG priming prior to immature oocyte retrieval in women with PCO increases the maturation rate and produces high pregnancy rates (Human Reprod, 2000; 15:165-170. N Eng J Med, 1999; 341:1624-1626). This has led to safer infertility treatment since there is no risk of OHSS. It allows egg donors to be more easily recruited (Fertility and Sterility, 2007; 88: 62-67).

- Participated in a study that was the first in the world to show that measurement of intra-ovarian stromal blood flow by color Doppler ultrasound is useful to select the appropriate dose of gonadotropins (Obstet Gynecol, 1996; 88:779-784. Fertil Steril, 1999; 71:22-29) for ovarian stimulation, thus reducing the incidence of poor response and OHSS.
- Participated in a study involving the first successful freezing of an entire organ in any animal species ("Fertility after intact ovary transplantation," Nature, 2002, Vol. 415, pg. 385).
- Co-developed (with Dr. R.C. Chian) the Cryoleaf device for use in the vitrification of oocytes (2003).
- Co-developed (with McGill Department of Engineering) an incubator for use in transport IVF. The device can safely store and transport human oocytes and sperm for up to 24 hours, much longer than any incubator currently available.
- Senior author of report on the first 4 IVM oocyte vitrification livebirths in the world (Fertility and Sterility, 2009; 91:372-376).
- Successfully improved combined IVM and oocyte vitrification by addition of L-Carnithine in the mouse model, which would hopefully allow the treatment to be as successful as combined IVF and oocyte vitrification in a few years time (Moawad AR, Tan SL, Xu B, Chen HY, Taketo T. L-carnitine supplementation during vitrification of mouse oocytes at the germinal vesicle stage improves preimplantation development following maturation and fertilization in vitro. Biology of Reproduction. 2013; 88:104.)
- First series of transvaginal ultrasound directed embryo transfer pregnancies and livebirths in Canada. (Michael H. Dahan, Zhang Lei, Karen Buzaglo, Hai-Ying Chen, Tan SL. A Case Report: The First Transvaginal Ultrasound-Guide Embryo Transfer And Pregnancy In Vitro Fertilization Cycle In Canada. International Journal Of Advances In Case Reports, International Journal Of Advances In Case Report, 2016;3:79-81).
- First report of GnRH agonist trigger in short stimulation modified natural IVF IVM cycle in the world. (Dahan MH, Zhang L, Chen HY, Tan SL. Early short stimulation modified natural cycle IVF with GnRH agonist trigger and in vitro maturation in a woman with polycystic ovary syndrome: A case report. Journal of Obstetrics and Gynaecology of Canada. 2016; 38:465-9).
- First series of triple stimulation, triple OPU embryo banking and PGS cases in IVF (paper in preparation)
- Achieving six livebirths in women over age of 44 using own eggs with IVF with oldest at 47 in Quebec (paper in preparation).
- Offer to endow new scholarship for MUHC Research Institute at their request (2015/2016)

- First prize in Basic Science category (had been given Medical Research Council of UK funding) at the European Society of Human Reproduction and Embryology Annual Conference in 2016 –“Unique geometry of sister kinetochores in human oocytes during meiosis I may explain maternal age-associated increases in chromosomal abnormalities”. This was in collaboration with University of Warwick group in UK. We found that sister kinetochores appear to be routinely separated, and the separation distance is greater in eggs from older women. These features of kinetochore geometry may make formation of stable attachments more difficult during meiosis I, and these results are significant as they may shed light on why aneuploidy increases with age in human females.

Teaching

- To ensure residents understand the fundamentals of research, initiated a new program which required that every resident complete a compulsory research project during residency training. Between 1993 and 1998, resident presentations increased more than four fold and number of resident research prizes tripled.
- Since 1995, created seven research fellowships: Brian Little Fellowship in Reproductive Medicine, Robert Kinch Fellowship in Perinatology, Robert Usher Fellowship in Reproductive Biology, Fellowship in Reproductive Medicine, Reproductive Surgery, two McGill Women's Health Fellowships in Reproductive Medicine.
- Since 1993, recruited and mentored 21 REI fellows. Funding was provided through the above research fellowships.
- Since 2010, teaching and supervision of several students in other departments in Canada, UK, Spain, etc.
- Started course on research methodology and writing of papers in conjunction with Professor Grudzinskas in UK and offered free to all Quebec and Canadian doctors and scientists. In the first course, over 50 participants attended.

Activities in Professional/Scientific Societies and Organizing Committees

- Founder, organizer and chairman of the Annual McGill International Symposium on Reproductive Endocrinology and Infertility. Since it was first held in 1996, the Symposium has evolved from a small local meeting into an international event that attracts speakers and attendees from around the world.
- Founding President of the Global Chinese Association of Reproductive Medicine (GCARM) (2004).
- Founding President of the International Society of In-Vitro Maturation of Oocytes (IVM) (2004).
- Founder, president and organizer of the World Congress on IVM first held in October 2004.
- Founder, Treasurer and Vice-President of the International Society of IVF (ISIVF).
- In conjunction with GCARM, organised two "Global Innovations on Fertility Treatment (GIIFT) pre-Congress courses before ESHRE in London and ASRM in Boston in 2013.
